Castlegem to offer fully virtualised environments – as good as a dedicated server – as cheap as a VPS

As of July Castlegem will be offering fully virtualised machines as an alternative to the highly demanded dedicated server systems and plain virtual private server solutions (VPS).

For those who need a fully virtualised environment for their applications yet do not want to spend the budget for a committed dedicated server, this solution is the ideal in between option. The costs are nearly the same as those for a VPS, with the advantage of having full control over an entire machine behaving like one without the obvious drawbacks of a virtual private server.

to configure your virtual private server – with or without full virtualisation, or ask for even more individual VPS setups.
