

Exciting News Castlegem Opening a New Point of Presence Data Exchange Centre in London - LDEX

Are you a business owner or a company in need of a data exchange close to home?

Ever wondered how nice and convenient it will be if you had a DEX right in the heart of London? Well wonder no more because Castlegem is pleased to announce we are opening a new point of presence in London at LDEX.

This will not only give organisations a convenient London proximity to store data and information, it will also provide them with great connectivity, redundant feeds, super low latency to the financial centres in London.

The most ideal location for virtual private servers, dedicated servers and hosted financial applications.

If you want a more convenient way to work, with great service and no compromise on quality visit <http://www.castlegem.co.uk/> for more information and change the way you work for the better.
