

Castlegem launching generic Bullhorn WordPress plugin

Castlegem group is proud to announce the completion of a generic Bullhorn plugin. Bullhorn is well known for their Applicant Tracking and Recruitment Software, and their API offers site owners in the recruitment industry many ways to enhance their clients' and users' experience.

Castlegem have been developing software since the group's inception in the mid nineties, and among our clients are enterprises with several thousand staff, relying on our expertise with Business Process Management and electronic process implementation.

As many sites these days use WordPress for their sites, it was only natural to develop a plugin to go along with WP, giving site owners not only a solid framework to have their Bullhorn system interact live with their users, but also a flexible way to present their data on their site without having to maintain it twice.

Naturally, Castlegem will offer special hosting deals to clients who have their site developed with this new plugin. Clients may choose from a wide range of locations in the US and Europe, offering excellent network connectivity and throughput for optimal site experience.
